THE DAILY GLOBE,TORONTO.WEDNESDAY SEPTEMBER 21ST.1859.

STORM DATE.EARLY MORNING,SUN.SEPT.11TH.?1859.

FEARFUL WHIRLWIND AND LOSS OF LIFE.(FROM THE RENFREW JOURNAL)

On Monday last an inquest was held on the body of JAMES LEESTER, a farmer residing in the TOWNSHIP of ROSS.It appears that early on Sunday morning a terrific tornado passed over the farm of the deceased, confining its ravages to,and expending its fury on the circuit of a few acres;the woods around the clearance being levelled,the barn and shanty scattered in every direction like chaff;the stone chimney,built of large blocks,blown away like dust;while one side of a large stove was carried on the blast four hundred yards over the tops of the trees,and scoops of the shanty were found in a neighbour's clearance.Several sheafs of wheat which had been stowed in the barn were found two miles distant from the scene of destruction.The impression that the storm must have done some damage,induced one of LEESTER'S neighbours to visit him,and on arriving,found the unfortunate man naked and dead lying close to where his shanty had been,under two of the barn-logs,one over his breast, and the other across his legs,with all the appalling attending circumstances above narrated.As he was undressed,the only apparently satisfactory way of accounting for the manner of his deathis to suppose him to have been sleeping in the barn at the time the tornado burst,and was carried along with the logs to the spot on which he was found.Deceased lived entirely alone,being unmarried,and had no relatives in this country. He bore the character of an industrious,sober man. RENFREW JOURNAL.

SAME PAPER.

THUNDERSTORM AT AYLMER.

On Sunday afternoon last,a most violent storm visited our village, while the rain fell in torrents,the reports of thunder were frequent and terrific.From many places in the vicinity,accounts reach us of buildings being struck by the lightning.At one house the electric fluid descended by the chimney,overset the stove,scattering the contents around the room,and ripping up the floor for a considerable distance.The inmates luckily received no serious injury,escaping with a few hours'headache.
