Houses Unroofed By Ontario Storm

Barns Wrecked, Services Disrupted in Waterloo County.

DAMAGE BY LIGHTNING

Kitchener, Aug. 23.—(CP)—Barns were wrecked, houses unroofed and streets blockaded by uprooted trees when an electrical storm, accompanied by winds of cyclonic velocity, swept across Waterloo County early to-day. Brunt of the damage was borne by a narrow swath extending from New Hamburg to Hespeler.

At New Hamburg the roof was blown from a substantial farm home owned by Herbert Bergey, just outside the village. A large barn, erected eight years ago, was wrecked on the other side of the village. It was owned by Aaron Niebergall, Halfway, between the two, Ben Roth's barn was partially wrecked. At another spot a garage was lifted completely off its foundation and carried 200 yards before it was dashed to pieces against a tree.

William Erb, principal of the high school as Kapuskasing, whose home is in New Hamburg, had a narrow escape when a large tree limb crashed through the top of his car.

Three miles south of Kitchener, the wind took further toll, cracking off 18 trees over a two-mile stretch near Williamsburg.

Power and telephone lines and trees in New Hamburg and near Williamsburg were snapped and the Kitchener telephone office reported serious damage outside Hespeler.

Owen Sound District.

Owen Sound, Aug. 23.—(CP)—Thousands of dollars damage resulted Saturday from the worst electrical and wind storm of the season, accompanied by a deluge of rain. Another storm broke over the city this morning, flooding sidewalks and cellars.

Electrical signs were torn down, trees uprooted, roofs torn from small buildings, by the strong wind. Falling trees broke telephone and power wires in many parts of the city.

Lightning struck the large bar[illegible] of Mr. Burnie Cruickshank, at Sp[illegible]mount just outside the city, th[illegible]sulting fire destroying it wit[illegible] season's crop, farm impleme[illegible] a number of young pigs. The [illegible] is estimated at about $2,500, p[illegible] covered by insurance.

The large barn of Jacob [illegible] near Williamsford was destr[illegible] by fire during the storm. T[illegible] [illegible]rations had just been co[illegible] or two previous [illegible] grain wer[illegible] building [illegible]

'TWISTER' CAUSES LINDSAY DAMAGE

STORM DATE SUN AUG 23

Lindsay, Aug. 24 (CP).—An electrical storm, accompanied by a "twister" of an intensity not experienced here in many years, did considerable damage in the rural section here yesterday. The wind whipped a roof off the barn of Fred Magee, in Emily Township, and deposited it in an adjacent field. Similar damage was done to the barn of Allan Toole, south of Omemee.

The home of Chris Hodgson, Burnt River, was struck by lightning early Sunday morning, shattering the chimney and bursting stovepipes. The lightning travelled across the ceiling and threw plaster over the room. Mr. Hodgson said he saw a ball of fire roll across the room.

Doors of a garage on the outskirts of Lindsay were shattered when the building was struck. It is owned by H. Daniels.

A barn owned by John Trueman in the Glenarm district, twenty miles northwest of here, was practically demolished by the storm. Roofs of barns owned by E. Argus and Rod Moran were torn off.

A bolt of lightning played an unkind prank on a white collie dog owned by Chris Hodgson of Burnt River at 6.30 a.m. Sunday. The bolt hit the house chimney, carrying the chimney 50 feet away. It ripped rafters, bulged a metal ceiling and tore plaster off the walls, then followed a telephone wire to the woodshed, where Mr. Hodgson was splitting wood. The dog was a few feet away. The bolt circled near the dog, and it was lifted off its legs and placed on its back with its legs in the air. The white dog was scorched a dark brown.
