(a) The clouds directly to the west commenced whirling about in great confusion whilst both north and south the rain could be seen descending in sheets. At this moment the whirlwind struck.....

(b) unroofed buildings and even threw some off their foundations. Crossing the Grand River it forcibly drew the water up. A town resident who was passing the Union Hotel was whirled violently around and the basket of currants that he was carrying was torn from his grasp never to be seen again. A wagon standing on the street was picked up and thrown to the other side, landing on the stoop of a house. One half of the Rev Acheson's church wrecked as well as Barnhardts stables. Timbers 60ft long carried through the air, some later found sticking straight up out of a pond with their ends penetrating some distance down into the mud. In a field, potatoes were found to have been forcibly torn out of the ground. A 200lb zinc covered plate from the tower of the city hall was blown clean over a nearby house and was found embedded in the rear garden.

ELORA OBSERVER (1)

FRIDAY JULY 25TH 1862

STORM DATE
TUES JULY 22ND 1862.

VIOLENT WHIRLWIND IN GALT.

WE were visited in GALT on Tuesday afternoon with what we have often heard of but never witnessed— A WHIRLWIND. It was accompanied by very heavy rain, and came from the west. It was apparently not more than a score or two of yards in width, and seems to have traversed an almost straight line from west to east.

Shortly after noon on Tuesday it became evident that a storm was brewing The morning was sultry with an east wind and rainshowers and constant mutterings of thunder. About the hour we have mentioned the sky to the west became very dark while the thunder rolled almost continuously. Just about at 1pm the clouds directly to the west commenced whirling about in great confusion whilst both north and south the rain could be seen descending in sheets At this moment the whirlwind struck the town at Mr. Lowells stable, the northerly roof of which it almost stripped of shingles whirling them high in the air and tossing boards about in graet confusion. It next caught a small outhouse attached to the reverand Messmores residence, which it tossed from its foundation down to the very edge of the river, then crossing the river the waters of which it drew forcibly up. It ripped patches of shingles off nearly every house in its course, besides throwing down the chimney of Mr. Sutherlands bakery, the telegraph wire, and partially up-rooting a large willow tree near Mr. Davis's. The large stables of the Union Hotel were next attacked and the shingles torn off here and there on the entire surface, and the roof being lifted and twisted. It here caught a resident of the town who was carrying a basket of currants, and whirled him violently around until he fortunately was enabled to grasp a post and thus save himself. The basket was carried up and has never been seen since. A waggon that was standing on the street was seized upon and after being thrown from one side of the street to the other was landed upon the stoop of Mr. Jameson's house.

The next place on which it spent its fury — which seemed to be rapidly increasing— was the large shed attached to Mr. Acheson's church one half of which it made a complete wreck, and the one end of Barnhardt's stables. The wreck beat everything! The heavy timbers of the building were thrown across the railroad, and many of them nearly across the pond, while in some cases the timbers are sticking straight up out of the water, having come down with such force as to cause the end to penetrate some distance into the mud. The railroad track was covered with debris, some timbers nearly 60 feet in length being removed there from. The wind next struck Mr. Todds establishment the drying stoop of which it seized and litterally threw over the stone building, landing boards, shingles, and other timbers on the opposite side of the Macadamized road. Its course was then through the burial ground at the top of the hill, out of which it flung, in endless confusion trees, stones etc. It then pursued a course a little to the back of the dwellings on the macadamized road, passing through the bush to the rear of the Rev. Mr. Acheson's house, and striking Mr. John Brown's premises with great violence. It literally tore his drive shed to pieces and scattered the timbers for yards around; stripped some of his apple trees and actually carried some potatoes out of the field wherein they were planted! The fences here also suffered severely but beyond what we have mentioned no damage of account occurred.

It is really wonderful that in its passage through the town no terrible accident occurred!

It was fortunate that the sheds caught the worst of the storm, or doubtless some fatal results would have been the consequences.

To show the strength of the whirl we may mention that the covering to the outlet on the tower of the town hall, a large zinc covered plate weighing about 200lbs, was found after the wind had passed, embedded in the rear of Mr. Robinson's garden, having been blown clear over his house! And yet at the same moment there was scarcely any noticeable winds a few hundred yards either to the north or south of this. The whirlwind after leaving Mr. Brown's still continued, and we shall doubtless hear of serious damage in the country.

Since the above was written, we have heard of its visit to Mr. John Warnocks, Beverley township. It was equally violent there, but fortunately passed his house and out buildings. His fence leading to the house— a morticed one — was wrenched and twisted in particular places, and trees were twisted and thrown down in every shape. One in particular was fairly writhed in the trunck, and the top carried off to no one knows where!

LITTLE SCOTLAND.

We understand from parties from the neighbourhood of Little Scotland, Beverley, that the whirlwind was very violent there. Barns and fences were seriously damaged, and in one case we understand a house was completely carried away, without, however any injury to its occupants.

We have here lost all traces of this "interesting visitor", but shall doubtless soon hear of its visit to other places. Whether it originated in this town, or we have only happened to lie in its course we have not been able to learn.

GALT

The Town of Galt is favorably situated on the banks of the Grand River, in the midst of a rich agricultural district. It is the largest town in the County of Waterloo, and contains about 5,000 inhabitants, and is one of the principal stations on the Wellington, Grey & Bruce Railway, which runs through the town, and the terminus of the Berlin and Galt Branch of the Grand Trunk Railway. The area of the town is 947 acres, and the assessed value $1,053,-000. At an early period Galt became so celebrated for its manufactories that it was called the "Manchester of Canada," which title it may still justly claim, if we look at the extent and elegance of its manufactories, and its unsurpassed hydraulic power, which is so fully utilized at present. We will not attempt giving a full description of these works, but merely name a few of those which appear most prominent, and first the DUMFRIES FOUNDRY, of Goldie & McCulloch, where from 150 to 200 hands are employed in making Steam Engines, Mill Gearing of all kinds, Woollen Mill Machinery, Wood-working Machinery, Burr Millstones, &c.

DUMFRIES FLOUR MILLS of Gavin Hume, with three run of stones, capable of dressing and packing 100 barrels of flour daily.

DICKSON FLOUR MILLS of Richard Blain.

GALT FOUNDRY of Cameron & Cowan, where engines of all kinds are made.

GALT AXE AND EDGE TOOL FACTORY of Warnock & Co.

WOOLLEN MILLS of Ellis & Godfrey.

HOSIERY AND WOOLLEN YARNS FACTORY of John Wardlaw.

GALT MACHINE WORKS of Cant, Gourlay & Co.

CABINET FACTORY of Thomas Little, on Ainslie street.

TANNERY of Wagner & Co., South Water street

Scott's Hub & Spoke Factory, Patterson's and Scott's Planing Mills.

REPORTER STEAM PRINTING ESTABLISHMENT, the most complete Printing Office outside of the cities.

Besides these, many others are worthy of notice did our space permit.

The mechanical and mercantile interests are equally well represented, so that from the above brief and necessarily imperfect sketch it will be seen that Galt is a town of much importance.

There are some very fine herds of Thoroughbred Short-horns in the neighborhood of Galt. Those of Mr. James Brown, of Brownsville, N. Dumfries, and James Cowan, Esq., Clochmhor, Waterloo, claim particular notice for excellence of stock.

EDUCATIONAL.—The Galt Collegiate Institute is second to none in Ontario, and requires only a passing notice at present, having long since established its merits as a literary institution. Dr. Tassie is the Principal, with six assistants. Galt Public Schools are excellent stone buildings, and reflect credit on the town for their architectural style. R. Alexander, Principal.

CHURCHES.

TRINITY (Episcopalian), is a good stone building, 90x60 feet. There is connection with this church a very handsome rectory, and a hall for Sabbath Schools and other purposes. Rev. Canon Hincks, Rector.

KNOX'S (Presbyterian), on West Main street, is the finest church edifice in the County. It was erected in 1869, and cost over $35,000. There is a good manse belonging to this church. Rev. J. K. Smith, minister.

ST. ANDREW'S (Presbyterian), a frame building on St. Andrew's street. Rev. Mr. Masson, minister.

UNION (Presbyterian), a frame building on Waterloo street. Rev. Richard Bentley, minister.

UNITED PRESBYTERIAN, is built of stone. Rev. Mr. Andrews, minister

ST. PATRICK'S (Roman Catholic), is a frame building, which is expected ere long to be replaced by a handsome brick edifice, Rev. Jeremiah Ryan, P.P. There is a large Separate School in connection with this Church, with 112 pupils in attendance, although only one year established, the pastor having erected the school house at his own personal expense.

METHODIST CHURCH, on Ainslie street, is a good stone building. Rev. J. V. Smith, minister.

BAPTIST CHURCH, on Dickson street, is built of stone. Rev. Mr. Clark, pastor.

and requires only a passing notice at present, having long since established its merits as a literary institution. Dr. Tassie is the Principal, with six assistants. Galt Public Schools are excellent stone buildings, and reflect credit on the town for their architectural style. R. Alexander, Principal.

CHURCHES.

TRINITY (Episcopalian), is a good stone building, 90x60 feet. There is connection with this church a very handsome rectory, and a hall for Sabbath Schools and other purposes. Rev. Canon Hincks, Rector.

KNOX'S (Presbyterian), on West Main street, is the finest church edifice in the County. It was erected in 1869, and cost over $35,000. There is a good manse belonging to this church. Rev. J. K. Smith, minister.

ST. ANDREW'S (Presbyterian), a frame building on St. Andrew's street. Rev. Mr. Masson, minister.

UNION (Presbyterian), a frame building on Waterloo street. Rev. Richard Bentley, minister.

UNITED PRESBYTERIAN, is built of stone. Rev. Mr. Andrews, minister

ST. PATRICK'S (Roman Catholic), is a frame building, which is expected ere long to be replaced by a handsome brick edifice, Rev. Jeremiah Ryan, P.P. There is a large Separate School in connection with this Church, with 112 pupils in attendance, although only one year established, the pastor having erected the school house at his own personal expense.

METHODIST CHURCH, on Ainslie street, is a good stone building. Rev. J. V. Smith, minister.

BAPTIST CHURCH, on Dickson street, is built of stone. Rev. Mr. Clark, pastor.
